Please provide a short intro about your career path. What brought you to London?

I moved to the UK in 2014 looking to expand myself, family, and career. Since starting my career in Washington, DC I have had the opportunity to work with an array of high-profile global clients that have challenged and inspired my career. Since living in the UK, London has been the perfect place to continue this growth.

What has been a highlight of your career so far? Or what has been your biggest career challenge so far and how have you overcome it?

My biggest career challenge has been assimilating into English culture while unabashedly pushing my career and professional goals. All in conjunction with starting a family. I consider this my biggest challenge as it is one that continues to stay with me day in and day out, going on 8 years now – and will continue. It never seems to get easier! However, it continues to thrill and excite as throughout my time in London I have not only grown as a professional, I have matured, and have learned to mine for the gold in every experience.

What brought you to CREW UK?

I found CREW through a few female contacts in the industry and just had to see what it was all about for myself. Initially, I heard great things about the mentorship programme, but quickly learned there are many other offerings from CREW that support and connect throughout the industry in a very positive way.

Plan B - if you were not in real estate, what would you be involved in now?

If I wasn't in the real estate / architecture & design industry I would probably be a passionate photographer and somehow associated with an art gallery. I love being around creatives and the community that art provides.

What are your interests/passions outside of work?

Outside of work I love sport, the great outdoors, and finding anything unique and beautiful to surround myself with – architecture, art, music, adventure.

Is there a book or a podcast that you have found insightful and would like to share with the community?

Dare to Lead with Brene Brown and Diary of a CEO.
